Dear Mr. Raemaekers,

I have received instructions from the "Daily Chronicle", and I have pleasure in making the following offer. I trust that you will find it acceptable and that it will lead to a profitable and happy co-operation between us.

The "Daily Chronicle" will be pleased to accept your offer to supply them with a series of twelve cartoons dealing with the war. For each cartoon they will pay you the sum of £6 (six pounds sterling) or 72 (seventy-two) gulden, as each drawing is received and accepted by the "Daily Chronicle". The "Daily Chronicle" will have the option of buying the original drawings separately or collectively, and of buying also the copyright. For such combined copyright and original the "Daily Chronicle" will pay ~~£12~~ at the rate of £10 (ten pounds) or 120 gulden for each one.

The only condition which the "Daily Chronicle" makes is this :- That if by chance any cartoon is not considered by them as suitable for publication in England, you will be willing to supply another in place of the one rejected on this ground.

I shall be most happy to receive your acceptance of these proposals as soon as possible, as we are anxious to receive your work without any unnecessary delay.

With Kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Chas. E. Tripp.

Special Correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, in Holland.
